Candidates for County Offices File Petitions

Six Republicans Record Petitions on Opening Day

Candidates for Lake county offices who have filed their nomination petitions in the county clerk's office in Waukegan include:

Republican ticket:

Jay B. Morse, for re-election as county clerk.
Chief Deputy Walter L. Atkinson, for sheriff to succeed Thomas Kennedy.
Deputy Treasurer Gustaf H. Fredbeck, for treasurer.
Allen J. Nelson, for re-election as probate clerk.
Perry L. Persons, for re-election as county judge.
W. C. Petty, for re-election as county superintendent of schools.

Their petitions were all recorded on Saturday, the first day for filing. Filing of petitions will close on Monday, February 23.

Among those who are expected to file on the Republican ticket are probate Judge Martin C. Decker; Warren G. Siver for probate clerk; Paul D. Doolen, Herman C. Litchfield and Clarence L. Brown, for county judge. It is believed that only one of the trio of the judgeship aspirants will emerge from conferences now being held among Republican leaders as the opponent of Perry L. Persons, who has held the office for 32 years and who long since was eligible for retirement on pension.

Brooks on State Slate
Petitions are being circulated for the Republican nomination for Senator Wayland C. Brooks, who has announced his candidacy for re-election. State Treasurer Warren Wright is also a candidate for U. S. senator on the Republican ticket and has already filed his petition.

Lyle H. Smith is Called Into Active Red Cross Work

Brother of Antioch Man Served at Fox Lake CCC Camp

Lyle H. Smith, educational director at the CCC camp, Fox Lake, for the past three years, has accepted a call from the American Red Cross divisional headquarters at St. Louis.

Mr. Smith was directed by long distance telephone to go to Washington headquarters of American Red Cross for 30 days instructions after which he will be assigned to one or more of the training camps for active Red Cross work.

Mr. Smith is a brother of H. A. Smith of the First National Bank of Antioch. He has made many friends in the vicinity who wish him well in the new assignment.

Antioch Cow Contributes to National Defense

Contributing her part to national defense is Montvie Chieftain Colantha Pabst 2188555, a purebred Holstein cow owned by E. H. Ravenscroft, whose dairy farm is on Highway 173, east of Antioch.

She produced 8,868 quarts of milk this past year, and 819.1 pounds of butterfat. If all the nation's cows were equal to this Holstein there would be an abundance of milk, butter and cheese for the United States, Great Britain and other needy countries.

Mr. Ravenscroft states that "Colantha" was milked three times daily, and that her production for the entire period was supervised by the University of Illinois and the Holstein-Friesian association of America.

Those Endless Chain Letters Start Again

The following notice is being called to the attention of the public by Postmaster Roy Kufalk of Antioch:

Office of the Solicitor, Washington, January 30, 1942
Endless Chain Schemes Soliciting Defense Saving Stamps

To All Postmasters:

The mails in all parts of the country are still being flooded with letters relating to so-called endless chain schemes soliciting defense saving stamps.

The Bulletin of July 22, 1941, contained a notice regarding the legality of such schemes. Nevertheless, patrons of the various post offices are depositing in the mails matter relating to schemes of this nature. They should be warned that the sending of such matter through the mails is a violation of the postal fraud and lottery statutes. Notices are served upon persons participating in such schemes whose names come to the attention of the Post Office Department requiring them to show cause why fraud orders should not be issued against them.

Such orders forbid the delivery of any mail to the persons named therein.

In order that the attention of the public be called to the illegal character of the scheme, it is suggested that local newspapers be requested to give publicity to this notice.

Play Tourney Will Continue Through Tonight

First Performances Wed. Evening Are Enthusiastically Received

(By Rosalie Sibley)

The Dramatics club of the Antioch Township High school presented four plays last night and will present four more tonight, under the sponsorship of the Antioch American Legion to benefit the service men.

This is the ninth year that the club, under the direction of M. K. Phillips, has presented the Inter-Class Play Tournament.

The first play of last night's performance, "A Vane Effort," proved not to be an effort in vain, as Bud Mapletorpe, playing Bud Kinne, showed the fallacy of the caveman idea.

The subtle humor of "She Stoops to Conquer" was enjoyed by all. The Irish dialect in "Mrs. O'Leary's Cow" contrasted with the modern characters.

The tragic incident at Pearl Harbor was told in the play "Aloha."

Tonight's program will consist of the four plays, "The Farnsworth Nose," "She Spied on Lincoln," "O Say Can You Sing," and "Comin' Round the Mountain."

Mrs. Farnsworth in "The Farnsworth Nose" will have a bad time persuading her daughter Paula that Biff Smithers, whose ambition is prize-fighting, is not the boy for her.

"She Spied on Lincoln" is the story of an attempted assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

"O Say Can You Sing" is the story of Betty, a small town girl who is supposed to sing for a Frenchman, but agrees to marry Tom instead.

"Comin' Round the Mountain" is a farce and a hill-billy play.

A capacity crowd attended Wednesday, and tonight's interesting program, with music under the direction of Hans Von Holwede between plays, promises an equally enthusiastic reception.

Fishing Licenses for 1942 Received Here

Village Clerk Roy L. Murrie announced today that fishing licenses for 1942 are now available here.

New this year is the ten-day non-resident hook and line fishing license for $1.00. The non-resident license before was always $3.00, and this fee will still entitle a non-resident to a year's fishing privileges.

Men of the U. S. armed forces stationed in Illinois are considered as residents.

Lieut. McMillen Speaks at Basketball Tourney

Lieut. James McMillen of Antioch, who is athletic director of the Naval school at Navy pier, spoke between halves of the St. Gregory-Navy Pier Shorekeepers' encounter at the annual Queen of Angels AAU basketball tournament last evening.

Antioch's Red Cross Showing Wins Praise

Mrs. William Marks, Chairman of Volunteer Services, Lauds Showing

"I wish to compliment the Antioch region on its fine showing in the Red Cross war relief emergency campaign," Mrs. William Marks of Lake Villa said, accepting the check for $1423.71 presented to her Tuesday by Mayor George B. Bartlett, who was township chairman for the drive.

Accepting for the National Red Cross in her capacity as chairman of special Red Cross board, Mrs. Marks commented, "I feel that this splendid response shows remarkable confidence in your township committee's efforts, as well as a most heartening desire to promote the much-needed war relief fund."

"I feel that the fine work done in this area by the Antioch rescue squad with its Red Cross-trained personnel, and the tremendous interest in first aid training have developed an unusual understanding of the work of the Red Cross throughout the region."

Faces Busy Year

Pointing out the fact that Antioch has been a leader in Lake county in sponsoring Red Cross first aid training, and that a local resident, Herman Holbek, is a member of the county board and in charge of training work for western Lake county, Mrs. Marks continued:

"We especially appreciate this fine response because now the American Red Cross faces the busiest year of service in its history—war expenses will be unprecedentedly great. Fifty million dollars are needed immediately to finance 50 principal war-time services of the Red Cross."

1. Military and naval welfare service.

2. Disaster relief—war today is waged on unarmed civilians.

3. Expansion of first aid, life saving and home nursing, of which you are doing such a bang-up job right here.

4. Expansion of all volunteer special services.

5. Red Cross blood donor service at request of army and naval authorities. Red Cross blood plasma saved the lives of those on the U. S. S. Kearney in the Atlantic and others at Honolulu and Manila recently. Today the Red Cross army of mercy is marching straight down the center of the road to a better America. Your achievement here in behalf of the much needed war fund is outstanding—you are most generously helping to keep the American Red Cross marching!"

We can't help but take our hats off—

Chicago (UP)—Organization of the nation's prison inmates into a system of blood donors for wounded soldiers, sailors and civilians is urged by the Central Howard association, prisoners' and parolees' welfare group.

The association said that many prisoners and parolees are anxious to serve the nation, but are prevented from enlisting in the army and navy.

"In view of the patriotic impulse expressed by many prisoners and ex-prisoners, and the fact that they are usually denied military service, a prisoners' blood bank would provide a channel through which they could serve the country," the association said.

"They are willing voluntarily to contribute blood gratis to an organization which will process the blood so that the blood plasma, or powdered blood, can be made available to the army or navy medical corps, the Red Cross, and others needing blood because of the war."

Here, too—

Fort Lewis, Wash. (AP)—Sioux Indian soldiers of Company B, 163rd Infantry of the 41st Division, got tired of many a back-breaking hour over a wash tub. They needed something to take the place of squaw-work. So they purchased a washing machine with money they saved from rebates on canteen book purchases.

While stories of Florida sea fishing have brought chuckles and thrills to the readers of a well known magazine, they have also brought reminiscences to an Antioch fishing enthusiast, Louis Nielsen. Nielsen, who was at one time a deep sea fisherman off the Florida coast, and Mrs. Nielsen left last (continued on page 8)

Channel Lake Club Elects Nick Zeien

Red Cross Sewing Unit Is Among Club Projects for Near Future

Nicholas Zeien, president; Mrs. O. G. Cunningham, vice-president; Mr. Ullrich, treasurer, and Mrs. Thomas Runyard, publicity, are the new officers who were elected at a meeting of the Channel Lake Community club Monday evening. They will be installed at the March meeting of the club.

A pot luck dinner with 36 members attending preceded the business session.

The school children of the Channel Lake district have been authorized to gather waste paper in that community, it was announced. Persons having paper they want picked up are asked to let the children know about it.

The club is planning to sponsor a Red Cross sewing unit as soon as supplies are ready in Waukegan. Mrs. Ham of Grapevine avenue, who had experience in this type of work in the first World War, will act as chairman. Persons wishing to help in any way with this work are asked to notify her. A work room will be fitted up in the schoolhouse.

A ten-cent luncheon is to be served at the school the last Wednesday of each month under the auspices of the Community club. All mothers and pre-school children are being especially invited to attend these luncheons. Mrs. Cunningham is in charge.

"Everyone always has a good time at the Channel Lake card parties," has come to be an axiom, but persons attending Men's Night party on Tuesday, Feb. 24, are promised an extra special good time. There will be refreshments, prizes, and lots of "extras."

Plans for Military Ball are Complete

Plans for the annual Legion military ball to be held Feb. 21, at Antioch high school gymnasium are complete according to a report of the committee made today.

The committee, which includes Roman B. Vos, J. L. Horan, L. C. Heath, Floyd Horton and James Caple, has invited state and national Legion officials to be present, as well as a number of military guests.

Noted Orchestra to Play
The Legion has secured the services of Ben Pascucci and his "All Stars" orchestra. This aggregation is composed of 12 of the finest musicians in the middle west, and has met with instant approval wherever it has appeared. Pascucci is well known among musicians in this vicinity, having been in the business for a great many years. Music in the "sophisticated" style featuring symphonic arrangements will be played at the Military ball.

Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained from any Legionnaire.

Discuss Possibility of Bus Service Between Here and Chicago

Excellent progress in the Antioch Lions club program to bring better transportation to Antioch is being reported by a committee consisting of Dan Boyer, William A. Rosing, Ed. F. Vos and H. A. Smith.

Reports were given by the committee at a meeting held by the club Monday evening in Hanke's Oak tavern.

The committee announced that there is a prospect of having new buses making several daily trips to downtown Chicago with feeder buses from the lake region.

H. J. Hooper of Lake Villa was a guest at the meeting, representing Lake Villa people who are vitally concerned in the program.

Various aspects of the automobile and tire shortages were discussed.

The club voted to purchase four $100 defense bonds.

23,800 lbs of Scrap Iron Sold By Antioch Citizens

The drive to sell scrap iron which started on December 8th under the supervision of the Future Farmers chapter of the Antioch High school has resulted in the collection and disposition of 22,972 pounds of scrap iron or its equivalent in copper, zinc and other metals.

This report was given out by C. L. Kutil, Vocational Agriculture instructor of the school and member of the County Food for Victory committee.

This iron has been sold to dealers in Milwaukee, Kenosha and Waukegan. The Sheahan Bros. on Depot street, Antioch, are buying iron also.

Only iron reported as sold is counted in the above figures. It may be that a lot more has been sold and not reported. Please report all scrap iron sales to C. L. Kutil. It will be of interest to know how much Antioch and vicinity can collect and sell so that it may get into the proper channels for defense work and finally for ultimate victory.

Fire's Destruction Mounts

Here is a set of figures which is a disgrace to the United States. During the month of December, the National fire loss totaled $31,361,000—$7,439,000 more than the November figure. During all of 1941, the total fire loss was $322,357,000, as compared with less than $306,500,000 in the preceding twelvemonth. And these figures cover only direct loss. They do not cover indirect loss—loss of business, loss of employment, loss of taxes, etc.—which runs into countless millions more.

It would be a grave mistake to think of fire only in terms of money values destroyed. This is serious, certainly, in normal times, when there is an abundance of labor and supplies and time. In these war times, the money destruction of fire is dwarfed to insignificance by other aspects. Fire makes ash and rubble of essential materials—materials which in many cases are dangerously scarce. Fire takes the labor of men and women—labor which should be used for productive military purposes. Fire drains the nation, consumes human energies, and wastes irreplaceable time.

Every person in this country can do something to help prevent fire. And everyone must, if it is to be licked. Every setback for fire is a battle won in the great production war which underlies the military war. Every pound of material saved, every hour of labor conserved, is of essential service to the nation. War will leave little enough for civilian consumption as it is. We simply can't afford destructive fire.

Oil for All

Don't get excited about rumors of impending oil shortages.

The facts are these: This country's oil production capacity is virtually limitless. Its refining capacity is greater than all the rest of the world combined.

We have, as a result, oil for our allies and plenty for the civilian population, as well.

Only one thing can cause a shortage of oil products for civilian consumption—the loss or transfer of oil tankers. That may make it necessary to ration oil temporarily in some areas. But, if that happens, remember that lack of oil is not the cause. This country's oil industry is one of the most important and most certain Allies the United Nations have.

Wars Are Not Won With Words

This war will not be won with words. It will not be won with talk about sacrifice and privation. Those things the American people will take as a matter of course. This war will be won with work. It will be won by utilizing the potentially limitless American production machine to the absolute limit.

A Senate Committee, under the chairmanship of Senator Truman, has made its report on the defense effort up to the middle of January. It cites example after example of waste, inefficiency, failure and self-interest. Some high government officials proved themselves astoundingly incompetent. Some business men were reluctant to take the steps that all-out war demands. Many labor leaders put their own ambitions and interests above the needs of a nation in peril. The people were apathetic. Too few of us seemed to realize that it is one thing to appropriate tens of billions for defense and war—and a very different and infinitely more difficult thing to turn those billions into the instruments of war.

We must pursue a different path in the future. The appointment of a one-man defense head and the abolition of the bungling, indecisive OPM are important steps in the right direction. Now there is only one job for all of us, from the President down to the lowliest worker in the smallest defense plant. That job is to produce—to produce as no nation ever produced before, to work as no people ever worked before.

Look at the American industrial machine. What nation in history has ever been so rich in resources and machines? The motor plants, the coal and metal mines, the oil fields, the power and light systems, the plane makers, the steel mills, the transportation agencies—these and a thousand other enterprises constitute an industrial empire which has long been the envy of an imitating world. This is what free enterprise has given us—this is what we must use to the fullest now.

To fail in this war, on either the home front or the military front, would be death for free enterprise, death for free government, death for all the other freedoms. We are learning, at long last, the terrible, costly mistakes of yesterday. Let them be used to show us the way to unparalleled achievement today and tomorrow.

Harbingers of Gloom Were Wrong

It will be remembered that certain harbingers of gloom forecast a terrible breakdown in rail transportation more than a year ago. Those prognosticators of disaster proved 100 per cent wrong. And the reason they were wrong constitutes an enduring tribute to the industry which hauls some two-thirds of this nation's freight.

Some twenty years ago the railroads started preparing for war. Like the rest of us, they hoped it would never come again—but they knew that it might. They laid down the beginnings of a program for rail improvement which has been steadily broadened and speeded.

The efficiency and abundance of railroad transportation cannot be judged simply by the amount of rolling stock on hand. The capacity and speed of that rolling stock is the most vital factor. The American railroads have led the world by a wide margin in the utilization of freight cars, and the speed of trains.

A freight car is in the hands of the railroads only about half the time. The rest of the time it is in the hands of shippers and receivers of freight. In the last war, freight cars were used as warehouses for weeks at a time—thousands of them stood idly on sidings, waiting to be unloaded, and completely out of service. That was the principal reason for the so-called "railroad breakdown of 1918." So the railroads joined with the shippers to make sure that would never happen again. Today cars are loaded and unloaded with unprecedented speed, and set back to work without waste or delay.

These are but a few highlights of the long railroad story. The lines are now prepared to handle nearly 525,000,000,000 ton-miles of freight this year—ten per cent more than they handled last year, when a new record was established. They have ordered 115,000 new freight cars and 974 new locomotives to be delivered by October 1. They have performed a tremendous task with complete efficiency. They will perform the still greater tasks which the future will demand.

Historic Saloon

The historic saloon in Washington, D. C., whose proprietor was said to be the recipient of more confidences of public men than any other one man in Washington was Shoomaker's, and the man in question was George Williamson. Newcomers who had heard of Shoomaker's were disappointed because it looked like an overcrowded storeroom with cobwebs all around. In spite of its unkempt appearance the order here was excellent. Any patrons who became too boisterous were asked to leave.

The recognized penalty for piracy on the high seas in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries was confiscation of the vessel and hanging of the crew.

A Trained Army...on Active Duty

• Your friends in the telephone company are doing the biggest job they ever had to do... a job directly linked with winning this war.

To the successful conclusion of this job the 30,000 men and women in the Illinois Bell Telephone Company have been pledged ever since we were attacked. Right now they are handling millions more calls each week than at the same time last year. They are meeting other unusual demands for service and equipment.

Many calls are essential to the successful conduct of the war—the movement of men, munitions and material—the direction of war production. These things come first and we consider it our solemn duty to serve them first.

We are doing our utmost to maintain the same high standard of service to which you are accustomed. We believe you'll agree we can still say, "So far, so good."

THE HEALING MINISTRY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—2:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus . . . was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.—Matthew 14:14.

Man is more than a body. He is made up of body, soul, and spirit. In a physical world where he is so much in touch with physical nature, and the needs of his body are so much before him, he is prone to forget that there is within a spiritual nature which is his real self.

God is interested in both the physical and the spiritual side of man. He provides all that we need for our bodies, and above all, He meets the all-important spiritual hunger of man's inner being. We find the Lord Jesus in our lesson graciously touching both spirit and body of the palsied man in response to the faith of his friends.

I. Faith Brings a Double Need to Christ (vv. 1-4).

This faith-stimulating story faces us first with

1. An Impossible Situation. Incapacitated and helpless physically and far more deeply afflicted spiritually, this man had no one who could heal his body and restore his soul. Apart from the power of God in Jesus Christ his situation was hopeless, and thus he may well typify every one of us except for the grace of Christ.

Furthermore, his circumstances were such as to make it impossible for him to get to Jesus, who was there in his city. Even when his four friends came to his help and bore him to the house where Jesus was, they could not enter because of the crowds. So a journey begun in hope was evidently to close in despair. But wait, these men had

2. An Undeniable Faith. "Where there's a will there's a way." Where there is faith the obstacles may be surmounted. Having begun a good work they persevered in it.

Had these men been bound by convention or custom they would never have put their friend at Jesus' feet. They did try to make a proper entry through the door, but it was blocked. The way to Jesus is often closed, by some custom, a vain philosophy, or a religious ceremony. Let us, like these believing men, open the roof if necessary to bring our needs and our needy friends to Him.

Although mention is made only of the palsy of this man, it is probable that both he and they knew that his need was for a double cure, for he was yet in his sins.

They brought him to Jesus, where their

II. Faith Receives a Double Reward From Christ (vv. 5-12).

Immediately Jesus "saw their faith" (v. 5), just as He always does. God is on the lookout for faith and is quick to reward it. The twofold need here brought a double blessing.

1. Spiritual Cleansing. The man's physical affliction thus proved to be his greatest blessing, for it brought him to Jesus, who cleansed him of all unrighteousness. If he had not been palsied he might never have met the Lord. Suffering, then, may be a means of grace. That is more than a pious platitude, for it has been proved repeatedly in the existence of men and women.

Certain scribes "sitting there" (they were not doing a thing to help) began to reason in their hearts that Jesus was blaspheming because only God can forgive sin. Their theology was faultless and their reasoning was logical, but the premise of their argument was wrong. Only God can forgive sin, but Jesus is God, something which they in their wisdom did not realize or accept.

We (especially young people in school) should be careful that the fluent smoothness of some unbelieving philosopher's logic does not lead us astray, and away from God's truth.

Note also the solemnizing thought that Jesus knew what they were thinking in their hearts. Let us remember that "all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do" (Heb. 4:13). What does He see when He looks into our hearts?

The challenge of these questioning scribes is met by

2. Physical Healing. Forgiving sins was harder than healing the body, but these enemies of Jesus lived so much in the realm of the physical that He had to give them a demonstration of His almighty power which they could see. It was a gracious thing for Him to do, and perhaps necessary in those early days of His life and ministry.

Today, with all the light of history upon the work of God, we need to beware that we do not sit in the seat of the scornful and demand a physical sign before we will believe. God is doing great things in the spiritual realm even in our day, in which Christian men and women may share by faith.

Help Men Prove U. S. Citizenship

WPA Traces Clues That Show Many Workers They Are Americans.

LOS ANGELES.—True stories, stranger than the fanciest fiction, are unfolding daily in offices of the Works Progress administration where hundreds of eager workers seek help in proving they are Americans.

From yellowed newspaper clippings, frayed baptismal certificates and other long-neglected records, parents are finding long lost children, brothers are learning of sisters they never knew existed and others are discovering dramatic events in their lives for the first time.

H. Russell Amory, Southern California administrator for the WPA, explained that proving citizenship is an important part of the agency's program in getting workers back to private employment.

It is essential to have proper certificates of birth before obtaining jobs in defense industries, to which most of the rehabilitated WPA workers are going, Amory said. In searching for these certificates, clerks have uncovered hundreds of comic, tragic and dramatic facts, he added.

Murder Story Helps.

From a certified copy of an old newspaper, which one WPA clerk found, a man read for the first time about the murder of his father 35 years ago. The story also mentioned surviving children and dates of their birth . . . aiding the man in procuring his birth certificate.

Another man, learning he was an illegitimate child, found his mother living, happily married and with four other children. The WPA worker didn't identify himself.

"What's the use?" he said. "It might benefit me in a material way for a short time but it might wreck the happiness of a nice family."

A brother and sister, adopted by different foster parents, were united when a southern California WPA worker unearthed their relationship.

In another case, a man discovered he was two years younger than his parents had told him. This improved his chances of a job.

Amory said that many people never knew, until proof of their birth was required, that they were born abroad. On two cases, he said, children born abroad were brought to the United States by foster parents. They had to become naturalized since the law prohibits claiming citizenship through foster parents.

Lost Citizenship in War.

Several persons, born in the United States, found their enlistment in the British army during the period prior to April 6, 1917, had lost them their American citizenship.

"An average of 100 persons a day seek our assistance in clarifying their citizenship problems," Amory said. "Nearly all of them have been offered work in one of the many aircraft factories in southern California but they can't get the jobs until they prove they aren't aliens."

"To date we have helped approximately 7,000 persons establish their citizenship by birth. From old letters, family Bibles and a wide variety of odd sources we get suitable proof of birth."

"There are no set rules for obtaining this important evidence. Each case is a problem unto itself and success of the search is determined mainly by the resourcefulness of trained personnel in this department of the WPA."

British Bachelors Outdo Women in Buying Clothes

LONDON.—Bachelors are the heaviest users of clothing coupons under the British rationing scheme, with unmarried women running them a close second. From returns issued by the board of trade for the first 19 weeks under the rationing plan it was found that bachelors used 30 coupons and unmarried women 29.

The survey shows that a majority of the people bought sensibly, and the idea that women had borrowed coupons from men has been proved wrong, as well as the idea that parents spent their coupons on their children.

Eleven per cent of the men and 6 per cent of the women—mostly elderly—spent no coupons.

Men of 18 years and over spent 27 coupons and women of the same age spent 26.

Boys and girls between 14 and 17 years spent 27 and 25, respectively; married men and women, 26 and 24, respectively.

He Sells His Toys to Buy Defense Bonds

SALEM, MASS.—Thirteen-year-old Robert Share bought a $25 defense bond with odd-job profits and liked the idea.

But odd jobs were scarce. So today he sold his electric train ($10), ice skates ($2) and a lesser toy (50 cents) to raise funds.

"I've still got more toys," he said. "What I need is customers."

AUTOMATIC
REFRIGERATOR

● In these days, when all of us are doing our best to build up savings, it pays to review every-day expenditures—amounts we have regarded as "fixed", such as food budgets and other kitchen expenses. Maybe we'll find that some of the money we are now paying out can be converted to savings without lowering our standard of living.

Here are 7 proved ways of saving money on your automatic refrigerator. Put them into operation in your house today . . . you'll soon feel the effect of the savings!

FREE—Write or inquire at your Public Service Store for the useful booklet, "How to Get the Most from Your Electric Service". Gives valuable tips, costs you nothing.

1 Be sure your refrigerator is not set flush against the wall—it costs more to run it that way. There should be an air space.

2 Take advantage of the savings which result from quantity buying of groceries. You can save $3.00 to $4.00 per month in this way alone. Your refrigerator will keep the food fresh.

3 When you plan a meal, plan how to use the leftovers. You can keep them safely in your automatic refrigerator.

4 Don't place food directly against the freezing compartment—this obstructs the circulation of cool air throughout the refrigerator.

5 Count the number of times a day you open the refrigerator door—divide it by two, and stick with it! You'll pay less to operate it.

6 Defrost regularly, according to your instruction book.

7 If something goes wrong, call in a service man at once, while the trouble is slight. Delay may cost you a high service bill.

Wesley Circle to Sponsor Movie, "One Foot in Heaven"

"One Foot in Heaven," adapted from the book of the same name, will be presented on the screen of the Antioch theater under the auspices of Wesley Circle of the Antioch Methodist church March 4, 5 and 6.

Starring Fredric March in the role of a preacher who followed a practical Christianity—one foot in heaven and the other solidly on earth—"One Foot in Heaven" has been hailed as one of the most delightful pictures of the year.

Starting with the young bride and youthful preacher as they come to their parsonage abode, and continuing with them through the sometimes trying and sometimes hilarious episodes of the parson's—and the parson's wife's—career, the movie proceeds from the days of the pompadour and long skirt down to the present era.

Life was sometimes trying for the preacher and his wife and their family—but it was seldom dull. Even the Ladies' Aid meetings and the receptions had their touches of drama or humor—and the picture has retained a generous share of the humor and the humanness that have made the book a best seller.

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "How much more should we seek to apprehend the spiritual ideas of God, than to dwell on the objects of sense! Opal's Bad Luck
The superstition regarding the opal's bad luck began in the Fourteenth century at the time of the Black Death, particularly in Venice. At that time the opal was a favorite of the Italian jewelers, but it was said that opals worn by those stricken by the disease became suddenly brilliant and that their luster departed upon the death of the owner. Thus the opal became associated with death and an object of dread.

Keeping Peanuts Fresh
The first box for keeping peanuts crisp was invented especially for the Boston National league ballpark, then copied all over the country. Each box burns a 3,500-watt bulb, day in and day out, which is just enough to keep the moisture dried out of the air. But of course the nuts are roasted fresh every morning.

Sabatical Year
The sabbatical year, in ancient Hebrew law, was every seventh year, during which fields were to lie fallow. The term is now applied to a year's vacation to teachers after a certain number of years.

X in X-ray
The "X" in X-ray is the standard symbol for the unknown. When these radiations were first discovered by Wilhelm Konrad von Roentgen, German physicist, in 1895, he called them X-rays, because of their unknown nature.

Change of Mind

After 80,000 copies of a splendiferous book on the activities of the U. S. navy had been printed, Washington bigwigs decided its title, "On the March" was a bit too aggressive and so 80,000 completely new covers had to be printed for the volume, this time bearing the innocuous title of "On Guard."

Origin of Song

In 1886, Theodore Metz composed a march called "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," for McIntyre and Heath's minstrel show. In 1896 Joseph Hayden wrote words for the music and the song was published. It became the favorite rallying song of Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders in Cuba.

Invulnerable Armaments

A DICTIONARY defines "invulnerable" as "incapable of being wounded or of receiving injury." Invulnerable armament, then, is armament that is incapable of being penetrated; and only spiritual armament is actually invulnerable. Everyone desires to feel secure and serene, to feel that there is an invulnerable protection shielding him at all times.

To know that every righteous thought and act has divine, hence invulnerable, protection and immunity from evil is a great joy and comfort to spiritually enlightened men and women. In the factory, office, home, on the highway, in the air—yes, even at the battle's front, if need be—he whose thought dwells in God has found the one invulnerable armament. No matter how sorely he is tried, how severely he is tempted, if his faith in God remains steadfast, if his allegiance to Truth, Life, and Love is firm, he will find true Mary Baker Eddy's words on page 277 of "Miscellaneous Writings," where she says: "No evidence before the material senses can close my eyes to the scientific proof that God, good, is supreme. Though clouds are round about Him, the divine justice and judgment are enthroned. Love is especially near in times of hate, and never so near as when one can be just amid lawlessness, and render good for evil."

The Psalmist proclaimed invulnerable the spiritual armament of the righteous, when he sang (Psalm 91: 1, 5, 7): "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. . . . Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day. . . . A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee."

Invulnerable spiritual armament is practical and concrete, available in human experience. . . . God, who is Life, Truth, and Love, is invulnerable, and man, His image and likeness, or reflection, is therefore invulnerable—invulnerable to sin, disease, disaster, lack, limitation, fear, ignorance, and superstition. . . . In his vision, the Revelator, John, saw "the holy city, new Jerusalem," that divine, heavenly state of consciousness in which is no evil, and he said (Revelation 21:27), "There shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie." Mrs. Eddy has said (Science and Health, p. 228), "The transmission of disease or of certain idiosyncrasies of mortal mind would be impossible if this great fact of being were learned, namely, that nothing inharmonious can enter being, for Life is God."

Does anyone doubt these inspired statements? Then let him read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews in the New Testament, which recounts many instances of divine protection and deliverance experienced by those whose faith in God never wavered in times of trouble and temptation. "God is no respecter of persons" (Acts 10:34), and His love and tender care are as available to one as another. When understood, God's goodness is seen to be everywhere; when it is utilized, the sick are healed, the lame made whole, the dumb regain speech, the blind see, and happiness, peace, and joy reign supreme where discord formerly held sway.

Spiritual armament is invulnerable, because Spirit or God fills all space, and there is no other presence or power. The recognition of this divine fact excludes from one's consciousness the belief of another presence or power, shutting out of thought and experience the evils of belief and the belief in evil. . . . Christ Jesus said (Mark 12:30), "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength." This is invulnerable spiritual armament.—The Christian Science Monitor

Soviet Vessel Has Vital Job

Faces Perilous Duties in
Breaking Trail Through
Frozen Seas.

SEATTLE.—Faced with the necessity of breaking a trail through the frozen seas of the Far North so American aid can be dispatched to Soviet armies via the "roof of the world," the 330-foot Russian ice-breaker Krasin is undergoing repairs here.

The Krasin is one of the largest ships of its type in the world, and its hull resembles that of a submarine. Driven by 10,000 horsepower, it is particularly adapted for the gruelling task.

Under the command of Capt. M. Markov, the Krasin next spring must open a trail via the Bering sea, the Arctic ocean and into the White sea as far as Murmansk and Archangel. In 1922 the Krasin, with Markov in command, was the first to negotiate this perilous route.

Task Is Difficult

Ice-breaking in winter is a difficult task, even for a vessel the size of the Krasin, the captain explained, because ice closes astern almost instantly after the vessel's passage. No cargo ship could follow.

In the spring, however, the "trail" will last days, then weeks, providing a vital supply line to the Soviet.

The route covers 10,000 miles, entirely unhampered to date—by enemy vessels.

Markov was decorated by the Soviet government in 1934 for his heroism in command of the Chelodsk, an ice-breaker type of cargo vessel, when it foundered and was crushed in ice north of Siberia. Since then not a ship has been lost along the route.

The Krasin's rounded sides and blunt bows enable it to rise on top of ice when the floes close in. Otherwise, the gigantic pressure of the floes would crush the vessel. By a rolling process, achieved with filling tanks on either side of the ship, the Krasin can break through ice with its keel.

The Krasin's 10,000 horsepower is more than that of a giant ocean steamer.

Doesn't Fear Japs.

Markov does not fear Japanese intervention in the north Pacific.

"Japan is too weak to hinder our operations," he said. "We can hide in the ice, if nothing else, and there isn't a Japanese commander afloat who would dare follow us. The ice is our friend."

Likewise, Russia does not fear enemy intervention in the White sea, Markov said, adding:

"There are 42 ice-breakers working the White sea. No enemy can follow us in, because they have no ice-breakers."

2,000 Frogs Fly Atlantic

To Help Great Britain

LONDON.—Two thousand United States frogs have just been flown across the Atlantic for war-time service in Britain—the first in history to make such a hop—but 75 per cent arrived dead.

The frogs were sent by the American Red Cross in a Ferry Command bomber for experimental and instructional use at St. Mary's hospital medical school.

British scientists formerly bought frogs locally and on the continent, but the war cut off continental supplies and the blackout makes it impossible for frog catchers to use bright lights at night.

Army Relaxes Its Rules

To Take on Man 6 Foot 7

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Richard Simmons appeared at an army recruiting station to enlist. Officers took one look and went into a huddle. They wired Eighth corps area headquarters at San Antonio.

Texas officers passed the wire around and held a consultation. They wired Washington.

Washington took the matter under advisement, then wired Oklahoma City:

"Okay."

Six-foot-seven-inch 240-pound Private Simmons was in the army today—even if he is one inch taller than regulations permit.

Bad Luck Surely Hits

Texas Family of Four

AMARILLO, TEXAS.—The John W. Lee family hopes the worst is over.

In the past few weeks, Lee suffered a lung injury and several bone fractures in an automobile accident.

His daughter was ill with mumps. John Carroll Lee, his three-year-old son, caught the whooping cough.

Mrs. Lee cut her thumb while slicing pumpkin and it took several stitches to close the wound.

Seeing Things? No!

They're Green Mice

LONDON.—After breeding 50 generations of mice, Dr. Rosslyn Bruce, rector of Hurstmonceux, Sussex, has succeeded in breeding green specimens. The first of these was grass green, and its first offspring was bottle green. Now he has the first family from the bottle green mouse. Their "chief tendency" is grass green.

Two mischievous girls who are members of a church choir in a neighboring town figured recently in a laughable incident which is good enough to hear repeating. In some way, known only to themselves, they became possessed of the subject of the minister's Sunday morning theme and thereupon set about selecting meanings in harmony with the theme.

On Sunday morning they were on hand bright and early, looking innocent enough to deceive a brace of Pinkerton detectives. One of them seated herself at the organ and played "Faint, Yet Pursuing," which was sung as a voluntary. Then the minister arose and consulted the list which had been given him, called for number 395. The choir sang, "Almost Persuaded." The minister arose and announced the theme "Courtship and Marriage," read the lesson and called the next song. The choir sang "Triumph at Last," and the congregation began to look amused. "After prayer sing 201," said the minister, and in his petition asked that the spirit of levity which possessed some of his hearers be banished. Then the choir sang, "Hasten, Lord the Glorious Day," and everybody laughed. Even the minister had difficulty in stilling a smile when the choir struck up, "Behold the Bridegroom Cometh," and the congregation became positively hilarious as the organ pealed out the opening notes of "What Shall the Harvest Be?" and throughout those wicked girls preserved their expressions of saintly innocence and afterwards decided that it was "the most peculiar and striking coincidence they ever heard of."

United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Somewhere in the Pacific ocean, this dramatic picture taken of a U. S. Navy dive bomber being circled by a Japanese fighter plane. Note in the picture that on both the side and underpart of the plane there have been deletions of certain parts and insignia which might give information to the enemy. Also on the top rigging of the carrier you will notice further deletions for the same reason.

LUZON: Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortresses holding the entrance to Manila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines.

The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders.

Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya.

The effort was to get in on MacArthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front.

But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invaders, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos.

There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay.

One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which struck the ship. She is believed to have been sunk.

The attack was carried out directly into the glare of the warship's searchlights, and under the full power of her guns, but so skillfully did its skipper maneuver that she was not struck, and escaped with all hands to tell the tale.

WAVELL:

And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant.

Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive.

Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again.

Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed, but either method, it was pointed out, might work.

No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

Washington: A Portland, Ore., college president, Dexter Keezer, and a former editorial writer, has been made assistant administrator of the Office of Price Administration, directly under Henderson.

London: It was announced that Darlan, Vichy government head, had agreed to send two shiploads of aid to General Rommel in Libya weekly, putting the supplies ashore at Tunis.

GERMANS: Not Out Yet

Reading endless stories of Russian successes in battles on the east front, and the continuous hammering back of Rommel's forces in north Africa had brought many over-optimistic souls to feel that the war was over, and that all which remained was some sort of mopping up process.

The turning of the tide in north Africa, and the success of German counterattacks in the Crimea showed that with favorable weather conditions the Nazis were still very much to be reckoned with.

The Crimea was a much warmer battlefield than the 40 below zero northern sectors, where the Russians, undiscouraged by the cold, and more at home in such weather, were able to hurl the Nazis back constantly on a wide front.

But the minute the weather moderated in the Crimea, they found themselves more or less up against a stone wall.

On the British and American forces was falling the brunt of the Japanese blitz, and its successes on Malaya and in the Philippines showed that this was no minor war, but an effort against powerful antagonists.

Therefore events generally pointed to what Washington had assured the people was coming—a long and bloody war, not to be lightly won.

Though, generally speaking, the news was not as unfavorable as it might have been, there was much less to be cheering about than there was to be worrying about, and the seriousness of the situation was apparently keenly appreciated by all those in power, including the President, his cabinet and the congress.

RUBBER:

Keeps Coming

Although dire rationing was apparently here to stay, the rubber situation was relieved somewhat when it was announced that shipments from the East Indies were continuing at almost a normal pace.

A glance at the map showed that considerable areas of the Dutch East Indies were still technically out of the active war zone, and the defeat of the Japanese armada in the Macassar straits halted a Jap threat which might have halted much of the rubber shipping summarily.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and Federal Loan administrator, was author of the statement that rubber shipments continued to be received.

He said enough had come in materially to increase the United States' reserve supply. For instance, since the war started, on December 7, he asserted that 114,000 tons of raw rubber had been received, truly a considerable amount.

"We are unloading some every day, and rubber is being shipped every day from the Dutch East Indies. We will continue to get it as long as we can keep the lanes open, and as long as they can load it."

"Some rubber is still coming out of Singapore."

This was even after the city had gone under siege. The Japs had launched an air attack on Sourabaya, which was the only major Javanese port to undergo such a war blow, but it was recalled that it would take more than an air blitz to put a huge port like this out of normal action.

New York: Tommy Manville, asbestos heir, to whom war was a side issue, announced he would take his sixth bride April 9, and would stay married this time. No. 6 would be, he said, Madge Lowe of Toronto, 23. She had been divorced.

Washington: Capital circles were stirred by reports that American aid to Russia had fallen below 50 per cent of the amount promised.

General Wounded

General Clinton A. Pierce, who has been reported wounded in action in the Philippines. He is the first U. S. general wounded in action in World War No. 2. This picture was taken before the outbreak of the war in the Pacific.

SINKINGS: Continue Heavy

The U-boat raids on the North Atlantic continued heavy, with a total of 16 ships attacked of which two escaped and 14 went to the bottom, with about an average loss of life.

Since our entrance into the war, two navy tankers had been torpedoed, the first managing to reach Iceland under her own power, but the second one, the Neches, going down with a reported estimated loss of 56 men, with 126 men escaping to fight again.

The location of the Neches' torpedoing was not immediately announced by the navy, but ship losses had been small in the Pacific after Pearl Harbor, more than equalled two to one by Allied sinkings of Jap ships.

There were growing reports of Allied naval strength in the Pacific, showing that increasing numbers of ships were active in those waters, and in one case having carried the attack to the Japanese-held Marshall and Gilbert islands, generally in the Australia defense zone, with terrific results.

In this action, though no strictly war vessels of Nippon were sunk, the navy reported several auxiliaries were sunk and damaged, which might include tankers, transports, supply ships used for naval purposes.

That our forces lost 11 planes but no ships showed that probably one of our aircraft carriers was in the neighborhood, and that a vessel of this size was being used in a task force offensive action demonstrated that Admiral Nimitz was keen on getting even with Japan for Pearl Harbor.

RUSSIA:

Buying Insurance

The Russians, having fought the Germans back considerably past their announced "winter line" on the northern sectors, might be said to be buying insurance against the Nazis' spring drive.

Some observers, including Senator Tydings, in addresses had warned that the Germans had some 100 divisions of soldiers that they had been holding out of action, just for the spring offensive against Russia.

The Red armies were not, however, believed to be losing anywhere nearly as heavily on the whole front as were the Germans, so this taste of victory, even though temporary, was expected to stand them in good stead when the time comes to hang on after May 1.

Experience of 1940 and 1941 was that the Russian winter would not break until about that time, to any appreciable degree, and at that point the Germans might be expected to launch another all-out attack.

The Red armies were well into Smolensk province, reporting that the Germans, instead of fighting holding actions, were now hastily moving back to better fortified lines, and trying at all costs to save as much material and as many men as possible.

It was considered probable that the Russians would be able, before the coming of spring, to shove the Germans at least back to Smolensk, thus giving the Nazis 230 miles to cover in reaching Moscow again, a distance that the Russians had already fought over twice, once going and once coming, and which they would defend even more stubbornly than the first time.

And they would, it was pointed out, be able this time to get an ever-increasing amount of Allied aid, and not be subject to the same quality of surprise which gave the Germans so much advantage the last time.

INSURANCE: On War Damage

The senate, by passing a bill giving owners of property free insurance up to $15,000 for war damage, showed that it is willing still further to commit the public credit to eventual victory in the war.

Some senators brought up the point during the debate that if property owners are to be given insurance without paying premiums, why should not the congress also give free insurance to civilians killed as the result of the war.

Bertrand Russell

Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, was imprisoned during the World War. After the World War began he took an active part in the "no conscription" movement and was fined as the author of a leaflet describing an early Christian conscientious objector. This led to his being deprived of his lectureship at Trinity college, Cambridge. He was offered a post at Harvard, but was refused a passport. He had intended to give a course of lectures (afterward published in America as "Political Ideals, 1918"), but was prevented by military authorities. In 1918 he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for an article he had written in the Tribunal.

Soviet Vessel Has Vital Job

Faces Perilous Duties in
Breaking Trail Through
Frozen Seas.

SEATTLE.—Faced with the necessity of breaking a trail through the frozen seas of the Far North so American aid can be dispatched to Soviet armies via the "roof of the world," the 330-foot Russian ice-breaker Krasin is undergoing repairs here.

The Krasin is one of the largest ships of its type in the world, and its hull resembles that of a submarine. Driven by 10,000 horsepower, it is particularly adapted for the gruelling task.

Under the command of Capt. M. Markov, the Krasin next spring must open a trail via the Bering sea, the Arctic ocean and into the White sea as far as Murmansk and Archangel. In 1922 the Krasin, with Markov in command, was the first to negotiate this perilous route.

Task Is Difficult.

Ice-breaking in winter is a difficult task, even for a vessel the size of the Krasin, the captain explained, because ice closes astern almost instantly after the vessel's passage. No cargo ship could follow.

In the spring, however, the "trail" will last days, then weeks, providing a vital supply line to the Soviet.

The route covers 10,000 miles, entirely unhampered—to date—by enemy vessels.

Markov was decorated by the Soviet government in 1934 for his heroism in command of the Chelodsk, an ice-breaker type of cargo vessel, when it foundered and was crushed in ice north of Siberia. Since then not a ship has been lost along the route.

The Krasin's rounded sides and blunt bows enable it to rise on top of ice when the floes close in. Otherwise, the gigantic pressure of the floes would crush the vessel. By a rolling process, achieved with filling tanks on either side of the ship, the Krasin can break through ice with its keel.

The Krasin's 10,000 horsepower is more than that of a giant ocean steamer.

Doesn't Fear Japs.

Markov does not fear Japanese intervention in the north Pacific.

"Japan is too weak to hinder our operations," he said. "We can hide in the ice, if nothing else, and there isn't a Japanese commander aloft who would dare follow us. The ice is our friend."

Likewise, Russia does not fear enemy intervention in the White sea, Markov said, adding:

"There are 42 ice-breakers working the White sea. No enemy can follow us in, because they have no ice-breakers."

2,000 Frogs Fly Atlantic

To Help Great Britain

LONDON.—Two thousand United States frogs have just been flown across the Atlantic for war-time service in Britain—the first in history to make such a hop—but 75 per cent arrived dead.

The frogs were sent by the American Red Cross in a Ferry Command bomber for experimental and instructional use at St. Mary's hospital medical school.

British scientists formerly bought frogs locally and on the continent, but the war cut off continental supplies and the blackout makes it impossible for frog catchers to use bright lights at night.

Army Relaxes Its Rules

To Take on Man 6 Foot 7

OKLAHOMA CITY.—Richard Simmons appeared at an army recruiting station to enlist. Officers took one look and went into a huddle. They wired Eighth corps area headquarters at San Antonio.

Texas officers passed the wire around and held a consultation. They wired Washington.

Washington took the matter under advisement, then wired Oklahoma City:

"Okay."

Six-foot-seven-inch 240-pound Private Simmons was in the army today—even if he is one inch taller than regulations permit.

Bad Luck Surely Hits

Texas Family of Four

AMARILLO, TEXAS.—The John W. Lee family hopes the worst is over.

In the past few weeks, Lee suffered a lung injury and several bone fractures in an automobile accident.

His daughter was ill with mumps. John Carroll Lee, his three-year-old son, caught the whooping cough.

Mrs. Lee cut her thumb while slicing pumpkin and it took several stitches to close the wound.

Seeing Things? No!

They're Green Mice

LONDON.—After breeding 50 generations of mice, Dr. Rosslyn Bruce, rector of Hurstmonceux, Sussex, has succeeded in breeding green specimens. The first of these was grass green, and its first offspring was bottle green. Now he has the first family from the bottle green mouse. Their "chief tendency" is grass green.

The remaining four locomotives will be switch engines.

Two mischievous girls who are members of a church choir in a neighborhood town figured recently in a automobile accident which is good enough to bear repeating. In some way, known only to themselves, they became possessed of the subject of the spinster's Sunday morning bonnet and thereupon set about selecting seats in front of the church.

On Sunday morning they were on hand bright and early, looking innocent enough to deceive a brace of Pinkerton detectives. One of them seated herself at the organ and played "Faint, Yet Pursuing," which was sung as a voluntary. Then the minister arose and consulted the list which had been given him, called for number 395. The choir sang, "Almost Persuaded." The minister arose and announced the theme "Courtship and Marriage," read the lesson and called the next song. The choir sang "Triumph at Last," and the congregation began to look amused. "After prayer sing 201," said the minister, and in his petition asked that the spirit of levity which possessed some of his hearers be banished. Then the choir sang, "Hasten, Lord the Glorious Day," and everybody laughed. Even the minister had difficulty in stifling a smile when the choir struck up, "Behold the Bridegroom Cometh," and the congregation became positively hilarious as the organ pealed out the opening notes of "What Shall the Harvest Be?" and throughout those wicked girls preserved their expressions of saintly innocence and afterwards decided that it was "the most peculiar and striking coincidence they ever heard of."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Somewhere in the Pacific ocean, this dramatic picture taken of a U. S. navy offensive patrol plane carrier being circled by a navy dive bomber as it begins its anti-submarine duties. Note in the picture that on both the side and underpart of the plane there have been deletions of certain parts and insignia which might give information to the enemy. Also on the top rigging of the carrier you will notice further deletions for the same reason.

LUZON: Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortresses holding the entrance to Manila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines.

The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders.

Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya.

The effort was to get in on MacArthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front.

But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invaders, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos.

There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay.

One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which struck the ship. She is believed to have been sunk.

The attack was carried out directly into the glare of the warship's searchlights, and under the full power of her guns, but so skillfully did its skipper maneuver that it was not struck, and escaped with all hands to tell the tale.

WAVELL: And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant.

Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive.

Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again.

Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed but either method, it was pointed out, might work.

No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

GERMANS: Not Out Yet

Reading endless stories of Russian successes in battles on the east front, and the continuous hammering back of Rommel's forces in north Africa had brought many over-optimistic souls to feel that the war was over, and that all which remained was some sort of mopping up process.

The turning of the tide in north Africa, and the success of German counterattacks in the Crimea showed that with favorable weather conditions the Nazis were still very much to be reckoned with.

The Crimea was a much warmer battlefield than the 40 below zero northern sectors, where the Russians, undiscouraged by the cold, and more at home in such weather, were able to hurl the Nazis back constantly on a wide front.

But the minute the weather moderated in the Crimea, they found themselves more or less up against a stone wall.

On the British and American forces was falling the brunt of the Japanese blitz, and its successes on Malaya and in the Philippines showed that this was no minor war, but an effort against powerful antagonists.

Therefore events generally pointed to what Washington had assured the people was coming—a long and bloody war, not to be lightly won.

Though, generally speaking, the news was not as unfavorable as it might have been, there was much less to be cheering about than there was to be worrying about, and the seriousness of the situation was apparently keenly appreciated by all those in power, including the President, his cabinet and the congress.

RUBBER: Keeps Coming

Although tire rationing was apparently here to stay, the rubber situation was relieved somewhat when it was announced that shipments from the East Indies were continuing at almost a normal pace.

A glance at the map showed that considerable areas of the Dutch East Indies were still technically out of the active war zone, and the defeat of the Japanese armada in the Makassar straits halted a Jap threat which might have halted much of the rubber shipping summarily.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and Federal Loan administrator, was author of the statement that rubber shipments continued to be received.

He said enough had come in materially to increase the United States' reserve supply. For instance, since the war started, on December 7, he asserted that 114,000 tons of raw rubber had been received, truly a considerable amount.

"We are unloading some every day, and rubber is being shipped every day from the Dutch East Indies. We will continue to get it as long as we can keep the lanes open, and as long as they can load it."

"Some rubber is still coming out of Singapore."

This was even after the city had gone under siege. The Japs had launched an air attack on Sourabaya, which was the only major Javanese port to undergo such a war blow, but it was recalled that it would take more than an air blitz to put a huge port like this out of normal action.

General Wounded

General Clinton A. Pierce, who has been reported wounded in action in the Philippines. He is the first U. S. general wounded in action in World War No. 2. This picture was taken before the outbreak of the war in the Pacific.

SINKINGS: Continue Heavy

The U-boat raids on the North Atlantic continued heavy, with a total of 16 ships attacked of which two escaped and 14 went to the bottom, with about an average loss of life.

Since our entrance into the war, two navy tankers had been torpedoed, the first managing to reach Iceland under her own power, but the second one, the Neches, going down with a reported estimated loss of 56 men, with 126 men escaping to fight again.

The location of the Neches' torpedoing was not immediately announced by the navy, but ship losses had been small in the Pacific after Pearl Harbor, more than equaled two to one by Allied sinkings of Jap ships.

There were growing reports of Allied naval strength in the Pacific, showing that increasing numbers of ships were active in those waters, and in one case having carried the attack to the Japanese-held Marshall and Gilbert islands, generally in the Australia defense zone, with terrific results.

In this action, though no strictly war vessels of Nippon were sunk, the navy reported several auxiliaries were sunk and damaged, which might include tankers, transports, supply ships used for naval purposes.

That our forces lost 11 planes but no ships showed that probably one of our aircraft carriers was in the neighborhood, and that a vessel of this size was being used in a task force offensive action demonstrated that Admiral Nimitz was keen on getting even with Japan for Pearl Harbor.

RUSSIA: Buying Insurance

The Russians, having fought the Germans back considerably past their announced "winter line" on the northern sectors, might be said to be buying insurance against the Nazis' spring drive.

Some observers, including Senator Tydings, in addresses had warned that the Germans had some 100 divisions of soldiers that they had been holding out of action, just for the spring offensive against Russia.

The Red armies were not, however, believed to be losing anywhere nearly as heavily on the whole front as were the Germans, so this taste of victory, even though temporary, was expected to stand them in good stead when the time comes to hang on after May 1.

Experience of 1940 and 1941 was that the Russian winter would not break until about that time, to any appreciable degree, and at that point the Germans might be expected to launch another all-out attack.

The Red armies were well into Smolensk province, reporting that the Germans, instead of fighting holding actions, were now hastily moving back to better fortified lines, and trying at all costs to save as much material and as many men as possible.

It was considered probable that the Russians would be able, before the coming of spring, to shove the Germans at least back to Smolensk, thus giving the Nazis 230 miles to cover in reaching Moscow again, a distance that the Russians had already fought over twice, once going and once coming, and which they would defend even more stubbornly than the first time.

And they would, it was pointed out, be able this time to get an ever-increasing amount of Allied aid, and not be subject to the same quality of surprise which gave the Germans so much advantage the last time.

The battle-lines now being so well drawn, it would be impossible for the Nazis to gain much momentum.

INSURANCE: On War Damage

The senate, by passing a bill giving owners of property free insurance up to $15,000 for war damage, showed that it is willing still further to commit the public credit to eventual victory in the war.

Some senators brought up the point during the debate that if property owners are to be given insurance without paying premiums, why should not the congress also give free insurance to civilians killed as the result of the war.

Bertrand Russell

Bertrand Russell, the philosopher, was imprisoned during the World War. After the World War began he took an active part in the "no conscription" movement and was fined as the author of a leaflet describing an early Christian conscientious objector. This led to his being deprived of his lectureship at Trinity college, Cambridge. He was offered a post at Harvard, but was refused a passport. He had intended to give a course of lectures (afterward published in America as "Political Ideals, 1918"), but was prevented by military authorities. In 1918 he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for an article he had written in the Tribunal.

Antioch Warriors Scalp Bulldogs

(By "Diz and Daft")

Antioch Sequoits floated through to what you would call an easy victory over the Bulldogs of Wauconda on Antioch's own floor Friday night. The Antioch boys took the lead the first quarter and could not be headed from then on. The Sequoits were led by Buchta and Barnstable with Buchta making 9 points and Barnstable making 8 points. Antioch cut through Wauconda's line of defense time and again for good baskets. Dale Barnstable, high point man in the conference on free throws, came through with 4 out of 5.

Antioch lightweights came out on the long end of a 28 to 9 score over Wauconda. The Home Town boys were never headed by Wauconda after they got started in the first quarter. High point man for Antioch was Howard Atwood, making thirteen of the 28 points.
